

MANAGEMENT AND MARKETING

KNOW MANAGEMENT & MARKETING IN THE WORLD OF BUSINESS

Management and marketing strategies are used widely, and involve creating communication and value for a product or service. Consumer trends move at a heightened pace, and therefore it is imperative that research and data analysis on pricing, methods of promotion, location, logistics and human resources are being conducted consistently.

In world where options are numerous and public opinion counts, management and marketing experts have to learn to develop strategies that are in line with the times, that take into account brand penetration, market development, product improvement as well as diversification of services.

Management and marketing involve many areas of study, with each part enhancing the understanding of how a product or service should be managed and marketed. These areas of study include advertising and brand management, statistics and customer behaviour, as well as areas such as international business and business communication.

Business courses such as management and marketing are some of the most popular worldwide, at both the undergraduate and graduate level. These courses range from broad and comprehensive to focussed specialisations. One reason for the popularity of these programmes are their extensive appeal in the corporate world and their adaptability in various areas of business.

Students pursuing management and marketing programmes should be primed for a truly enriching journey of the business world, learning skills and accumulating knowledge that will equip them to be significant contributors to businesses, companies and economies.
