MARY HEATON

VORSE 1874-1966

Mary Heaton Vorse (nee Mary Marvin Heaton), author, labor journalist, and social critic, was born in New York City on October 11, 1874 and grew up in Amherst, Mass. Her parents traveled extensively in Europe and Mary received a major part of her education abroad, where she learned to speak fluent French, Italian, and German. Her early desire was to be an artist and as a young woman she spent several winters studying art in Paris.

Albert White Vorse, whom she married in 1898, died in 1910. She married Joseph O'Brien in 1912, and was widowed for the second time in 1915. She had three children: Heaton White Vorse, Mary Ellen (Vorse) Boyden, and Joel O'Brien.

From 1907 until her death in 1966 Mrs. Vorse made her home in Provincetown, Massachusetts.

Mrs. Vorse's professional writing career began when she served as a substitute book-reviewer on the Criterion, a magazine which was then being edited by her husband, Albert White Vorse. Although known in later years primarily as a labor writer and journalist, she achieved her initial success as a writer of light fiction, both short stories and novels. Her published writings include sixteen books and more than 400 articles and stories which have appeared in over 70 periodicals, including Woman's Home Companion, McCall's, Harper's, Masses, New Republic, New Yorker, McClure's, Survey, Delineator, Atlantic, and Ladies' Home Journal. In addition, she has written countless news articles and series for International News Service (INS), U.P., North American Newspaper Alliance (NANA), Labor Press Associates, Federated Press, New York Post, New York World, Washington Post, Washington News, Paris Post, and many others.

Among Mrs. Vorse's many friends in the literary world were such prominent and promising American writers as Eugene O'Neill, Susan Glaspell, Neith Boyce, George Cram Cook, Hutchins Hapgood, John DosPassos, and Sinclair Lewis (who credits her with having advised him that "the art of writing is the art of applying the seat of your pants to the seat of the chair."). It was on the Vorse fish wharf in Provincetown that the newly-formed Provincetown Players gave some of their first plays in 1915.

Al though she had previously had some awareness of the problems of labor and of social and economic conditions in this country, it was the textile strike in Lawrence (Mass.) in 1912 which transformed Mrs. Vorse's interest in the labor movement from an abstract interest into a personal involvement.

Similarly, her experiences as a foreign correspondent in Europe in 1915 affected her toward war as the Lawrence Strike had toward the problems of labor. As she stated in Footnote To Folly, it was "the difference between knowing academically that war exists and the emotional realization of it." In reporting wars and the events and conditions preceding and following them, she concentrated her writing on civilians; on the people who were most affected by them.

Mrs. Vorse's activities from 1912 until her death in 1966 took her into every part of the country and many parts of the world--observing, reporting, and often participating in strikes, labor disturbances, civil disturbances, wars, revolutions, and political upheavals. Unable and unwilling to be a disinterested observer, she reported what she felt, as well as what she heard and saw. She wrote about living and working conditions in all types of jobs in all parts of the country. She wrote about the 1919 steel strike, the sit-down strikes of 1937, infant mortality, the textile strikes of the 1920's, child labor, and the problems of housing war workers during World Wars I and II. But primarily she wrote about people---migrant agricultural workers in California and textile workers in New England; lumbermen in the Pacific Northwest and cannery workers in Florida; auto workers and steel workers; the I.W.W.; and the Consumers League.

In 1962 Mrs. Vorse, along with Eleanor Roosevelt and Upton Sinclair, received the Social Justice Award from the United Automobile Workers.

On June 14, 1966 Mary Heaton Vorse died at her home in Provincetown.

A chronicle of her major activities and travels would include:

THE MARY HEATON VORSE COLLECTION

Manuscripts

Series I

45 Boxes (1-45)

The Manuscripts series contains the bulk of the writings, both published and unpublished, of Mary Heaton Vorse. Included are holographic and typescript drafts, notes, and plot outlines; galley proofs and page proofs; reference and research material; reprints of articles and stories; and various other papers relating to her writings.

For purposes of clarity and consistency, the following terms have been used throughout:

- "Reprint" - Any copy of a published article or story, whether the actual copy from the publication or a duplication of any type (photostat, xerox, etc.)
- "Draft" - All versions of a literary manuscript whether rough draft or final copy. The exception being that where a manuscript was labeled by Mary Heaton Vorse, "rough draft", "2nd draft", etc., the more definitive term has been used in describing the manuscript.

The manuscripts have been divided into the following categories:

- Books - Arranged alphabetically by title.
- Articles &
Stories - Arranged alphabetically by title. Untitled articles and stories follow the main listing and are arranged alphabetically by the main topic of the article or by the main character (s).
- Other
Writings - Writings which do not fall into the two previous categories: book reviews, interviews, plays, lectures, newspaper articles, etc. Arranged by type; chronologically and/or alphabetically within each type.
- Notes - Notes and ideas for articles and stories.
- Misc. - Miscellaneous notes and reference material, manuscript pages, and fragments of manuscripts.
- Stories
Written &
Sold - Ledgers and bound notebooks listing stories and articles written, and the periodicals to which they were submitted for publication.

Manuscripts (Cont'd.)

Series I

45 Boxes (1-45)

Other

Authors - Those published and unpublished articles, stories, and related papers of other authors which were found with the Mary Heaton Vorse papers. Arranged alphabetically by surname of author; by title for each author. Manuscripts for which the author is unknown are arranged alphabetically by title.

Note: A number of manuscripts, again both published and unpublished, are to be found in the General Information series, under the appropriate subject headings, (e.g., Passaic, "Battle of Passaic")

Daily Notes

Series III

17 boxes (77-93)

This series is comprised of three categories of journal-type notes which were written by Mary Heaton Vorse on a daily, monthly, or annual basis.

Daily Summaries,

often called "Line-A-Day" by Mary Heaton Vorse, these are brief summaries of her daily activities. They were usually kept on a monthly basis for the period 1918-1965. The arrangement is chronological.

Yearly Summaries,

sometimes entitled "Flow of Years", consist of lists containing very brief notations which summarize Mrs. Vorse's major activities, travels, and writings for the years listed.

Daily Notes,

consisting of the random thoughts of Mary Heaton Vorse, contain her ideas, impressions, and present and future plans. For some days the notes are extensive, for others they are minimal. The notes are handwritten and frequently were undated or partially dated. They cover the years 1917 to 1965 and are arranged chronologically.

General Information Files

Series IV

39 boxes (94-132)

General information files on subjects in which Mary Heaton Vorse was interested and/or was writing about. The materials consist of reference and research material, newspaper clippings, notes, manuscript drafts, and correspondence. The subjects cover a wide range of topics but in general fall into a few broad categories:

Labor - Specific unions; strikes; conventions; NLRB; industrial diseases; workmen's compensation; labor during wartime (both World Wars); problems and working conditions of various types of workers (e.g., auto workers, farmers, textile workers, migrants, loggers, miners); individuals and organizations active in the labor movement.

Social Welfare - Infant mortality, old age, Consumer's League, civil liberties (e.g. Michigan Syndicalists), women's suffrage

Foreign - Europe (e.g. Russia 1921, Germany 1933, Poland 1939, UNRRA); Mexico; Morocco

The materials are arranged alphabetically by topic, surname, name of organization, geographic area, industry, etc. ("Jane Addams", "AFL", "Consumer's League", "Europe", "Textiles", "Waterfront")

Pamphlets, 1874 - 1964: A subject file of pamphlets, brochures, flyers and other printed background materials collected by Mary Heaton Vorse. Much of it dates from the periods of World War I and World War II and was used for the writing of articles and pamphlets which Vorse did during those years. The topics of labor and foreign relations are especially well represented. The material is arranged alphabetically by topic. Files are listed below.
