THE SINGER'S MUSICAL THEATRE ANTHOLOGY

The volumes of The Singer's Musical Theatre Anthology were released as follows: Volume 1 in 1987; Volume 2 in 1993, with Duets Volume 2 in 2005; Volume 3 in 2000; Volume 4 in 2006; Volume 5 in 2008. The accompaniment CDs for Volumes 1 through 3 were released in 2005. Book and Accompaniment CDs packages were released for Volumes 1 through 4 in 2007.

All four voice types (Soprano, Mezzo-Soprano/Belter, Tenor, Baritone/Bass) of Volume 1, and the Soprano and Mezzo-Soprano Volumes of Volume 2 were revised in content in 2000.

The aims of the series have remained the same since inception:

- To provide an interesting variety of musical theatre literature for an assortment of tastes and talents
- To deliberately represent songs from various eras and styles
- Beyond the most prominent songs, to present intriguing songs that are not often encountered in other collections, and may not be available elsewhere
- To present the music in a responsible, faithful edition as originally performed onstage, in original keys
- To categorize songs by voice type for practical use
- To include accurate historical and plot information about each show represented
- Overall, to continue to value musical theatre as a body of vocal literature

Musical theatre is not necessarily composed with traditional voice types in mind. It is sometimes tricky business deciding whether any given song belongs in the soprano or belter volume, or in the tenor or baritone/bass volume. The vocal range of a song only tells part of the story. Musical theatre soprano literature is generally low in range compared to opera or classical literature for sopranos, for instance. What is the vocal timbre that the song seems to require? What type of voice is on the original cast recording? Categorizing songs sung by sopranos who also belt is one of the most challenging aspects of the task. Then there are the “bari-tenor” songs, which could go either way. We make the best judgments possible, and know that there is sometimes room for other conclusions.
